

If you don't use it...freeuse it!

A great new website is giving people the chance to find a hidden treasure or give away items for free.

The online Freeuse resource offers a quick and easy way for residents to advertise their unwanted possessions, or search for an item that they could put to good use.

The website - put together by the Leicestershire Waste Partnership - is designed to reduce the amount of waste generated by giving old household items a new lease of life.

It's estimated that £5.6 billion pounds worth of good quality usable household items are thrown away in the UK every year.
